

The KINGS OF NUTHIN'

With their stellar musicianship and impeccable style, a more perfect album is scarce. Intent on bringing back the neglected elements of swing, they infuse it with barhouse boogie-woogie, gospel, and ragtime. It's surprisingly authentic, as these boys have obviously done their homework. The lyrics are superb, with a sense of humor bigger than a plate of pasta at your aunt Dora's, and nearly as big as her. Not ones to to skimp, they give up a 15 songs here without a single clunker.
- Ewan Wadharmi / Lollipop

This is the only record you're going to hear this year, or any other, that sounds like this. Among the instruments the players utilise are stand-up bass, piano, tenor and baritone sax, and even a washboard. Combine that with smart and sassy songwriting and you know you're getting somethin special. Considering how much style and substance they have, these kids just may wind up the kings of Beantown. - Rob Ferraz/Exclaim

Taking the best aspects of early rock and roll - saxophones, pianos and a friggin' washboard! - the Kings give them their own toothless and tattooed flavor. The Kings Of Nuthin' are truly a unique band and may have recorded one of the best records of the year. Hop on their bandwagon before it gets too full. - Johnny Fatts / Fat City

Crazily kamikaze Punkrock of the Buzzcock variety recast in some long lost Alan Freed C-feature, or more precisely a Brian Setzer orchestra with big huge balls instead of cereal box tattooery. My party platter of the year, Your party platter of the year, THE party platter of the year! - Cosmik Debris / Gary Pig Gold 2002 TOP TEN LIST

Holy shit, this is so damn good it doesn't even bear thinking about. This has so much balls, so much attitude and so much talent that you'd be a prick not to recognise it. It's like punk rock if it were played in the 1950's- with a brass section, double bass, piano, washboard and really, really cool vocals and extremely well written songs. I have heard these guys in the past but this record just grabbed me and held on tight. Sincerely, this is an amazing piece of work. Man, I hope these guys get to come over to Europe because I'd fucking love to catch one of their shows.
Hats off to these Boston boys. - NFT / UK

The Kings of Nuthin are a ROCK AND ROLL band who have more in common with people like Bill Haley, Chuck Berry and Jerry Lee Lewis than some clean and safe Disney soundtrack peppered with rehashed jump blues revival nonsense. The Kings of Nuthin are a dirty, sleazy, piano and saxophone roadhouse honking and screaming. This is the burlesque show house band your grandma shook her pasties to along a wide-open stretch of West Texas. - Jeff Proctor / San Diego Punk
