

Discipline

Discipline is a Street Rock and Roll band that's best known for combining aggression, passion and melody into sing-along Street rock anthems. Being around for over 25 years Discipline build itself a reputation for playing very energetic live shows and they gained a large crowd of supporters all over the world.

Since the first release in the early nineties Discipline recorded a new album almost every year. This resulted in an impressive back catalogue with record and cd releases on several well-known national and international punkrock labels.

The bands most famous hits "Everywhere we go" and "Red and White Army" grew out to be classic football anthems. For years "Red and White Army" was played in the Philips stadium before every home match of Football club PSV from Eindhoven, also the hometown of Discipline. Another highlight is the bands smashing remake of Golden Earrings hit single "Going to the Run".

Besides the many headlining tours and shows, the band has also shared the stage with the likes of The Business, Cock Sparrer, Madball, Sick of it All, Motorhead, Cockney Rejects, Biohazard, Böhse Onkelz, Ignite, Rose Tattoo and many more. They managed to play at all the major European festivals like Dynamo Open Air, Graspop, Holidays in the Sun, With Full Force, Rebellion, Pressure Fest, Punk & Disorderly, Vans Warped Tour, the European Hardcore Parties, Endless Summer, G.O.N.D., Spirit From The Streets, Hellfest and so on!

In 2018 Discipline parted ways with vocalist Merijn, but soon recruited a new member to fill in the spot. With this line-up Discipline will continue what they do best: Taking the stages of clubs and festivals around the globe by playing their pure and honest Working Class Street Rock N Roll.
